DOMESTIC BOYCOTTING.

The Proprieties of Mother-in-lawism.

From the Saturday Review.

Mr. Lorimer Fison "once saw a man of the Australian tribe Wangaratta full of the utmost distress and disgust because his mother-in-law's shadow had fallen across his legs. He had been lying at the foot of an enormous gum tree, which hid him from the old lady's view as she approached; and so the catastrophe occurred." Among less scrupulous savages mother-in-law are not absolutely boycotted, but there must be no taintment; they are respectfully addressed in the dual or plural. Even so the presence of relations by marriage (among certain American tribes a man must strictly boycott his own father-in-law) always brings a chill constraint into the family circle. This is the moribund inconvenient because a man and a hunter is bound to give much of his game to these same relations, his wife's parents. Thus Boycotting stops a good way short of the Irish system, which chiefly exists for the opposite purpose of depriving landlords agents and paying tenants of food. If a married black fellow, aided by an unmarried black fellow, kills a kangaroo, the whole quarry goes to the father-in-law and mother-in-law, except the left leg, the share of the married man, and the right leg, the property of the bachelor. If a married man is lucky enough to spear a native bear, his parents-in-law get the left side and two legs, he himself obtains part of the head, and gives his wife a portion, while she supplies her sister with the ears. These negotiations naturally have to be conducted through the wife, while the hunter makes his own arrangements with his own father and mother. When a wombat is slain the father-in-law only gets the backbone, and the mother-in-law some skin. Much ill-feeling is naturally caused, we may presume, when a hunter is always supplying the camp with wombat, and never with native bear or kangaroo. Owing to the simple and salutary rules of intercourse, however, the mother-in-law cannot reproach the bread-winner, or rather, we should say, the wombat-winner, of the family.

The Alenian Islander, says Mr. Farrer, quoting Dall, "knows nothing of what civilized nations call modesty" yet the bashful creature positively blushes when he is obliged to speak to his wife, or ask her for anything in the presence of others. Custom compels him to assume the attitude of perfect strangers; and it is greatly to be desired that this rule, or a modification of it, might be introduced into Germany, where betrothed people behave in company as if they were alone in a wilderness of space, or possessed the secret of fern seed.

The Hottentots used to have a bad character for domestic affection, because they were never seen to speak to their own wives. But the Hottentot is not really cold and indifferent; he is only compelled, by the law of his people, to boycott his wife. The lady may not enter her husband's room in the hut, and the husband, as among Spartans must never be seen in the neighborhood of his wife. Among the Yorubas, an African tribe, this domestic Boycotting is carried out with the extreme rigor. A woman is forbidden to speak to her husband, and not even to see him if it can possibly be avoided. Apparently a similar custom existed among the early Sanskrit speaking people, for the wife, in the famous story of Urvashi and Pururavas says to her lord: "Never let me see thee without the royal garments, for such is the manner of women." And when this rule is accidentally broken, Urvashi must "sofly and suddenly vanish away," like the victims who have looked on the mysterious Boojum. The Circassians are equally shy. "A Circassian bridegroom must not see his wife nor live with her without the greatest mystery," and the unconverted natives of the Fiji Islands display the utmost distaste of mind when adventurous missionaries suggest that there is no real harm in a man's living under the same roof with his wife. So far do the Hoes carry this feeling, and so opposite to our own are their ideas of decorum, that "it is the correct thing for a wife to run away from her husband." In this case the lady Boycotts her lord, and it is his duty to try to make her return to the family tent. Domestic Boycotting even goes further than this among the Fijians and other islanders of the Pacific. The young Kanaka bolts with a wild scream into the bush if you even mention the name of his amiable sister, while in Fiji not only brothers and sisters, but first cousins of opposite sexes, strictly Boycott each other, and may neither eat together nor speak to each other.

The Vaterland, an ultramontane journal of Bavaria, celebrated the tenth anniversary of the proclamation of the consolidated German Empire by appearing with a heavy border and columns of black: the typographical garb of mourning.

SOME RECENT ELOPEMENTS.

Queerly Assorted Couples, and How Their Unions Have Resulted.

The elopement of an Omaha school-mistress with a pupil about a third of her own age, recently mentioned in this column, has resulted in what the pair claim is a happy marriage, though the boy's parents are trying to bring about a separation. In a Pittsburgh case the disparity in ages was of the reverse kind, the man being sixty and the girl sixteen. After being joined by a clergyman they took lodgings at a hotel, where a son of the bridegroom found and separated them, compelling the old man to go home. A Utica couple had a married man for its male half, and in the girl's pocket, when her parents overtook her, was a written promise to marry her as soon as he obtained a divorce from his wife. A Detroit man eloped with and married two girls, believing their consent would make his polygamy harmless in the eye of the law; but he has been made aware of his mistake by arrest as a bigamist. A girl whose mother kept a boarding house at St. Thomas, Ontario, did not desire to elope without her wardrobe. So she induced her sweetheart to engage board at the house and bring in two empty trunks, in which her clothes were surreptitiously packed. When all was ready the boarder moved out with his baggage, taking the girl along.

Poor Whites of the Blue Ridge.

From the Pall Mall Gazette.

For a pure and unadulterated specimen of the race whose woes have through all time caused the blood of true Republicanism to boil, we will follow one of the red turnpikes of Piedmont, Virginia. Here substantial men upon the one side barter their eggs and poultry for sugar and dry goods, and grind their corn and wheat, while the loafing-loving idlers from the other side descend from the heights trailing their long Kentucky rifles in one hand, and carrying in the other strings of trout or corn and squirrel skins for trade. Long and lean of figure, with lank and yellow faces, with eye expressive of a mental vacancy that it would be unjust to impute to them, with hair and beard falling often in happy confusion upon their chest and shoulders, and with a contempt for shoes and stockings that only vanishes before the snows of winter, these children of nature can turn out as if by fifties and hundreds from deep valleys whose very existence the world below, though it watches the sun set over them every night of its life, scarcely wots of. The wife of Napoleon Maurice looks as if she were composed of old parchment stretched upon a frame. She wears an immense sun-bonnet and smokes a clay pipe with a long red stem, as she surveys with evident satisfaction the rudely fenced vegetable garden that is her special care.

THE LAWS DELAY.

The GAZETTE has listened to a great many complaints concerning the administration of legal matters in this County. These complaints are not in any manner leveled against persons or particular officials and are, we believe, correct in principle.

Every good citizen holds himself ready to perform his share of jury duty and in general to assist in enforcing the law, but farmers who live several miles from the County seat think they should not be summoned to hear the granting of continuances any oftener than can be helped. It is believed that the lawyers are entirely too selfish in this matter, and that a small effort on their part would make many of these postponements unnecessary. The "laws delay" has come to be proverbial, but it originates with the lawyers. Courts are maintained in order that relief may be granted, and when unnecessary delays are allowed the Court becomes an instrument of injustice. The cases of Dalton and Tharp, recently before the Court, are shining examples of the mistake complained of. If the fault belongs to the bar, its members should, in justice to their clients and the business community, correct it speedily. If it arises merely from oversight there is no excuse whatever. The convenience of farmers and business men must be considered, and the Court will no doubt in future see to it that every proper rule is enforced to that end.

A VERY SINGULAR STRIKE.

A singular strike, says the Bodie Free Press, was made in the Syndicate on Monday. At a depth of 150 feet, old Osceola vein, in a small cavity of an otherwise solid vein of quartz, four feet in thickness, was found a large, live tarantula, as large around as the top of an ordinary teacup. Superintendent R. K. Colcord has the specimen imprisoned at his residence near the Syndicate mill, and the "bird" is as lively as a cricket.

If the above could be verified to the satisfaction of scientific men it would upset all their theories. Any number of such stories have been circulated, but under critical examination there was always found some crack or connection where the frog or snake or lizard or tarantula had crawled in when it was very small and had lived long enough on air and water without food to change its color and make it look as if it had been there a long time. In blasting rock it might easily be so shattered that the crevice would not be discovered. We advise our excellent contemporary to investigate the matter and get its proofs very strong, otherwise it will for once have a story that will not be swallowed.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Marysville Appeal endorses the GAZETTE in regard to the folly of a wholesale and indiscriminate clamor against corporations, and shows clearly the necessity of organized effort to the accomplishment of any undertaking beyond the scope of individual effort. Corporations were created to meet a necessity in human affairs and it has never been intimated that the necessity no longer exists.

Ah Luck, probably a mistake for Bad Luck, was the victim of the customary "dull thud" on Friday last at Nevada City, California. Luck had been unfortunate enough to murder a countryman under peculiarly revolting circumstances. Before expiring the victim placed himself on record as dying with the hope of a "blessed hereafter."

The completion of the Carson and Colorado railroad is of vast importance to Reno. We give a large amount of space to-day to maps showing its course and the country around about. There is very little description necessary, for it is about like the rest of Nevada, and we all know what that is.

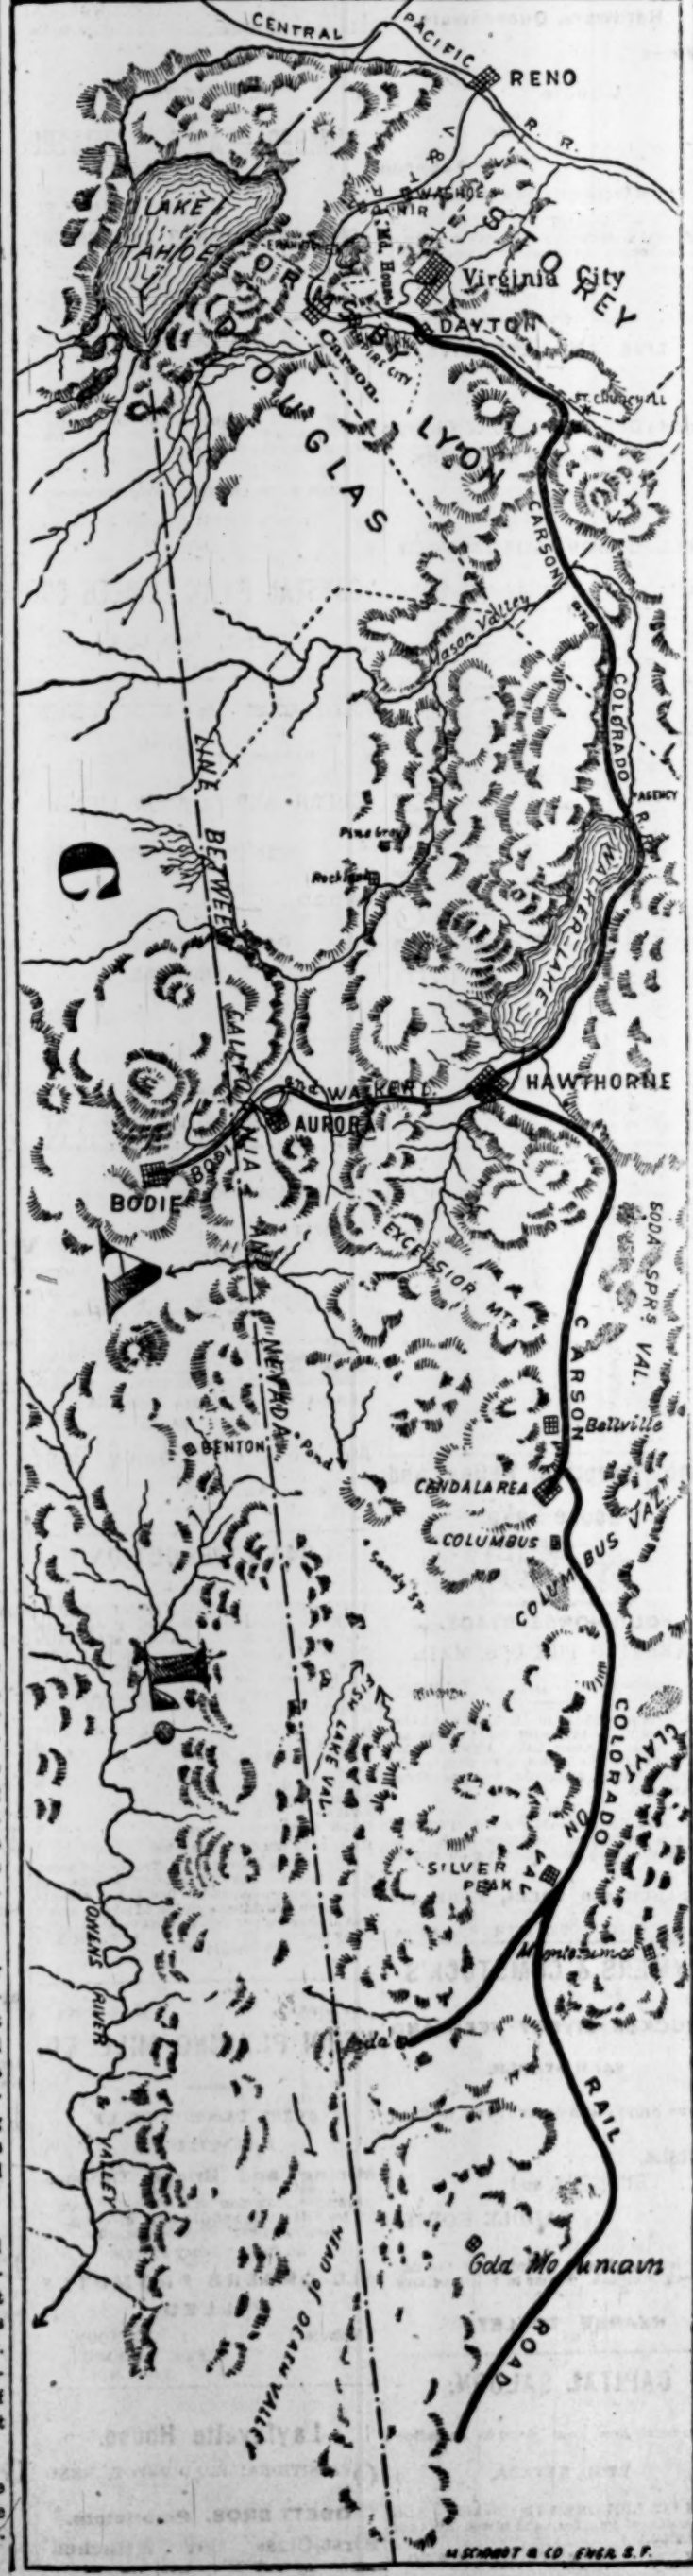

There is probably no truth in the rumor that Nevada's insane are to be hired out to the publishers of a certain San Francisco newspaper.

THE CARSON AND COLORADO.

How It Will Run, and What Is Expected of It.

On Thursday evening last the track of the Carson & Colorado Railroad reached Hawthorne, at the south end of Walker Lake, and thirty-seven miles from Bodie. It is one of the best narrow gauge roads ever built, and will be a very important factor in the future development of this State. That it will be of great benefit to Washoe county, must be evident to all. Even if it gets no trade from that country, it will draw upon Reno for hay, grain, flour and vegetables, to say nothing of the wood and lumber business that may come this way in time. If the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe build through on the thirty-fifth parallel, as they undoubtedly will, a couple hundred of miles will connect Reno with it, and give her competition for overland freights. The large map is not a north and south map. The railroad runs about south-east, and the map is made to show a narrow strip of country on either side. There is probably but little future for this region as an agricultural country. Outside of Mason valley, it is barren and rocky hillsides, or dry, sandy valleys, with no living streams of any size. Reno will do well to look to the mining fraternity for business if she expects to do any. There is no reason why Reno should not sell that whole country boots and shoes, clothing, provisions, groceries and hardware. A little advertising and drumming would help a great deal in that way.

The details of the map showing the line of the new road are so meager that the GAZETTE has obtained one showing the whole country which can be in any way affected by it, that is given below. It will convey to the reader an excellent idea of the territory about to be invaded by the iron horse. The d into the world's commerce by such prospecting as has been done on the Comstock, it is impossible to guess. No part of the State has so much interest in this road as Reno and Washoe county. It will probably injure Carson and Virginia more than it will benefit them, but Reno ought to draw trade from there as she does from the country north towards Oregon.

INSURANCE! INSURANCE!!
THE ATTENTION OF THE PUBLIC IS called to the following notices from the April number of the "Cost Review," the recognized authority on insurance on this coast. The Insurance Company represented by the Agency of Jacobs & Easton, and for which
W. N. Knox is Agent for Reno
THE TRADERS'.
The Traders' Insurance Company is a conservative, well-managed company. The assets of nearly one million dollars, consist of the very best securities, being principally United States bonds. The original capital of $500,000, in United States bonds, has never been touched since the organization of the company. The losses paid to date aggregate $1,700,000, and the surplus to policy holders is $724,000.

THE GLASS FALLS.
The Glass Falls Insurance Co., better known as the "old and tried," has had a remarkable record of prosperity. Its assets go beyond a million dollars, and the surplus $729,343.33. This company does business under the Safety Fund law of New York, and shows the largest book value of stock of any fire insurance company of the United States.

BUFFALO-GERMAN.
The Buffalo-German Insurance Company also does its business under the Safety Fund law of New York, which makes its policy a doubly secure. This company has assets amounting to $2,432,723, and a surplus to policy holders of $844,071.33. The stock of the company has a value of $221.04 for every hundred dollars, which brings the Buffalo-German fourth on the list of all American companies.

THE UNION.
The Union Insurance Company of Philadelphia, was incorporated in 1804, and since then has paid out in losses more than $10,000,000. The assets of the company are about $900,000, with a surplus to policy holders of $300,000. This company has lately moved into their new and elegant building, the present large quarters being necessary for the transaction of their increased business.

THE TRADERS'.
The Traders' Insurance Company of New York City, points to an honorable and successful record of nearly a quarter of a century, suffering largely in the Chicago configuration, and paying on the great loss on one alone more than the amount of its entire capital, without calling upon its stockholders for one dollar, and to-day is stronger than ever.

THE ROCHSTER-GERMAN.
The Rochester-German Insurance Company is a well managed institution, writing small lines and making haste slowly. It has assets of nearly a half million dollars, and a handsome surplus beyond its capital. Since its organization it has made steady progress, adding yearly to its assets, as well as to its surplus.

Love.

From the Philadelphia Times.
Love is not made of kisses, or of sighs,
Of clinging hands, or of sorceries
And subtle witchcrafts of alluring eyes.
Love is not made of broken whispers; No!
Nor of the blushing cheek, whose answering
Tells that the ear has heard the accents low.
Love is not made of tears, nor yet of smiles;
Of quivering lips, or of exulting wiles;
Love is not tempted; he himself beguiles.
This is Love's language, but this is not Love.
If we know aught of Love, how shall we dare
To say that this is Love, when well aware
That these are common things, and Love is rare?
As separate streams may, blending, ever roll
In course united, so, of soul to soul,
Love is the union into one sweet whole.
As molten metals mingle, as a chord
Sweets into sweet harmony; When Lord is Lord,
Two hearts are one, as letters form a word.
One heart, one mind, one soul and one desire.
A kindred fancy and a sister fire
Of thought and passion; these can Love inspire.
This makes a heaven of earth; for this is Love.

Seven residents of Rutland, Vt., have been taking lessons in draw poker, the instructor being a professional gambler, and cost $3.172.

The Rev. Wm. Thomas preaches to a colored congregation in Washington on Sundays, and during the rest of the week is employed as doorman for a gambling house.

The lying in state of an Emperor of Russia is a remarkable spectacle. The body is placed on a bed, with guards around it, and then the public are allowed to walk through the room, each one kissing the corpse as he passes.

Several French ladies of high rank who are unwilling to part with their children to go abroad, and are unwilling also to separate them from the religious teachers to whom they have been hitherto confided, have emigrated for a time to Jersey, where several French convent schools are established.

Von Balow, the pianist, and now director of the orchestra of the Duke of Meiningen, is reported to be training his musicians to commit their scores to memory and to play them without notes. German critics ridicule the idea, and say that even if such a performance were possible, it would be a purely mechanical feat of no value to compare with the labor necessitated by it.

The music committee of the West Troy Methodist Episcopal church decided to buy a piano. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Krohn, said that he was acquainted with a piano dealer in Albany, and could make a good bargain. The instrument was delivered and the preacher presented a receipted bill for $300, and drew that amount from the church treasury. It has been discovered that he really paid $200, and put the other $100 profit in his pocket. The trustees exposed the trick, and will sue him for the $100.

The Bowery Just Before Daylight.

A reporter left the Sun office shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday morning and walked up the Bowery. At the corner of Division street he saw a man hurled through the doorway of a saloon followed by a powerful looking policeman, who began to use his club upon the man, who was evidently intoxicated. The man had been drinking in the saloon, and had refused to pay for what he drank, and the bartender or proprietor, together with the policeman, put him out and clubbed him. On the corner of Spring street three men were thrashing one. The unfortunate person was about 20 years of age, but he made a plucky fight with his antagonists. At that moment two policemen rushed around the corner, but did not interfere with the fight, for they seemed to recognize the three men as friends, and sided with them. As the reporter arrived opposite Riverton street he heard the low, angry voices of men quarrelling. Riverton street, near the Bowery, was dimly lighted by a flickering gas lamp, but he could see the forms of three men dodging about. They were fighting and using loud, bad language. Suddenly there was a flash, followed by the report of a pistol. The two policemen on the corner of Spring street rushed over, followed by an excited crowd. They hurried down Riverton street, but the reporter took the train for Harlem.

A Highly Prosperous Church.

From the Springfield Republican.

The handsome new church of the Unitarian Society in Hartford was dedicated yesterday. It is exactly like an opera house, with opera chairs, a gallery, and a platform arranged like a stage, and which can be used for concerts and light theatricals. The cost of the church, site and organ was $28,000, and the society has a fund of $30,000 left over.

Prost, $1,300.

"To sum it up, six long years of bed-ridden sickness, costing $200 per year, total $1,200—total of this expense was stopped by three bottles of Hop-Bitters taken by my wife. She has done her share, and I have done mine, without the loss of a day, and I want everybody to know it, for their benefit."

I will sell cheap for cash or installments the fine lot lying between Bishop, Whitcomb's Boundary and Mount Hope Surveys, Reno, Nevada. These are the finest building lots in the State. —STEPHEN CONNER.
